The leadership and management needs of organisations are changing faster today than ever before. The business world is becoming more sophisticated and complex, automation is on the rise, and the inability to innovate is resulting in bankruptcies and closures. In addition to these challenges, as Millennials enter the workforce and the last of the Baby Boomers head towards retirement, we’re going to see an increasing gap in leadership if we don’t focus on succession planning and developing our future leaders.

But here’s the thing, in the digital era that we are in, many roles that exist today won’t be there in the future and on the other side of that coin new roles that are not even on our radar will emerge. So how does one even begin to plan for that? Much of what we need in the future will come from refining and adapting skills that are already part of best leadership practise, therefore we must invest in continuous learning for our people. We need to start treating leadership development as a journey rather than a one off program or coaching course.

Here’s where I think Hands Group can help. Enter the Future of Leadership, - a one day event that will add immense value to your organisations leadership development journey. FOL2019 will change the way you approach leadership in your organisation, in your teams, and in your personal life. You and your team will gain invaluable insight into the innovative thinking, visionary ideas and personal triumphs of some of Australia’s best speakers. From social research to behavioural science, fitness & wellbeing, social change and thriving in the digital age, our 2019 line up will provide lessons, insights and energy which attendees can apply to their own leadership journeys.

Future of Leadership started as a one day event in 2013 and in 2019 the roadshow will visit seven locations across 3 different countries with a combined audience of over 2,000 people. the annual roadshow is an initiative of Hands Group, a social enterprise set up to support the operations of the charity Hands Across the Water.

At Hands Group we believe the best way we can generate income is by doing what we do best - creating meaningful shared experiences that add value to everyone involved. By attending Future of Leadership, you will arm your organisation with tools to be a better leader, your team will walk away inspired and ready to take action personally and professionally, PLUS you are supporting the ongoing work of our charity Hands Across the Water.

Future of Leadership will help your team learn from failures, effectively navigate change, see things from a different perspective, persevere during times of adversity, and build strong relationships. If this sounds like the direction your organisation would like to head, then I would absolutely love for FOL2019 to be part of your leadership development journey.
